2,000 COPIES A DAY! TO THE PUBLIC.

The astonishing success attending the publication of REDPATH'S LIFE

CAPT. JOHN BROWN

Has for the present exceeded the publishers' facilities for supplying the demand. They are now making 2,000 copies a day, but as about thirty thousand copies were subscribed for through Agents previous to its publication, they are now delivering it to Agents and Subscribers only.

We shall immediately increase our facilities for manufacturing, and by running four steam presses night and day, we hope to be able to announce the work as formally published by the last of January, or in about ten days. Until that period we sak the indulgence of the public. That

OVER THIRTY THOUSAND COPIES

Of this work were sold in a private way before the work was announced to the public at large, or notified by the press, is a fact, we believe, unparalleled in the annals of book-making, on either side of the Atlantic. CAPT. JOHN BROWN

From Marian Hariand, author of "Alone," "Hidden Path," &c.

"I speak my honest sentiments when I pronounce Benlak'
the best work of fiction ever published by a Southern writer.

To my mind, no American authorses has ever produced a greater book. There is a lifetime of thought and research of struggles of mind and heart, in 'Benlah.' I have read every word with intense interest. The character-painting is fine, the description of passing events and scenery graphic and striking; but to me the chief charm of the book lies in the vivid portraiture of the doubts, the conflicts, the yearnings and the final triumph of a great soul seeking for truth. If the public can appreciate a thoroughly good work, they will thank you for having given them 'Beulah.'"

From the Rev. Wm. H. Milburn (the Blind Preacher Eloquent).
"I have no hesitation in saying that few books have ever interested me more. The plot, the delineation of character, and the action, I think, are all admirable. It would be an extraordinary work from the hand of any woman, but it is peculiarly so from one so young. The reading of it cannot but do greatered."

From Fred. S. Cozzens, author of the "Sparrowgrass Papers."

"I have been greatly interested by this story of the Mobile heroine, and I am convinced that the story will produce a sympathetic inpression on the public mind. There is not a word in it, nor a phrase in it, that I have not meted and measured. Over and above the method of telling the story, the story itself wins, commands, controls, the sympathies of the reader. This, I take it, is the highest test of excellence."

ON THE ORIGIN OF SPECIES MEANS OF NATURAL SELECTION, OR THE PRESERVATION OF FAVORED RACES IN THE STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.
By EHARLES DARWIN, M. A. 1 vol., 18mo., 432 pages. $1 25.

From The London Saturday Review.

"When we say that the conclusions announced by Mr. Darwin are such as, if established, would cause a complete revolution in the fundamental doctrines of Natural History—and further, that although his theory is essentially distinct from the development theory of the 'vestiges of creation,' it tends so far in the same direction as it trunch apon the territory of established religious belief—we imply that his book is one of the most time portant that, for a long time, has been given to the public. We have not been among the foremost to pass our judgment upon it—for it is a book—we say it deliberately—that will not bear to be dealt with lightly. It is the result of long continued thought and labor, directed by a man of remarkable ability and wide attainments to construct and to consolidate a theory which has for its basis some undeniable facts."

If it was laid on the table at breakfast, it was sure to be called up at dinner. It was at the bottom of everything and on the top of everything; it was poured out with the tea and handed round with the colocks, it ran out of the water-pipes, it epened and shut with the doors, it stared from the walls, it pervaded the atmosphere. READY FEBRUARY The most thrifting, the most interesting, and the most wonder to narrative of Arctic Life and Experience ever written.

AN ARCTIC BOAT JOURNEY.

AN ARCTIC BOAT JOURNEY.

BY

DR. 1. 1. HAYES.

Late Surgeon to the Kane Expedition.

This volume describes a journey made by a party of eight persons, from the brig Advance, during the Kane Expedition, in hopes of communicating with the civilired inhabitants of Upernavik, and thus finding an escape from their Winter quarters, where they were blockaded, the journey of over 1,000 miles to secomplish this purpose, the failure of their plans, their consequent sufferings and narrow escapes from death, and their final return to their comrades at the brig. It formed the most exciting portion of the whole Kane Expedition, and it was prevented from appearing in that book by the illness of Dr. Hayes, who was thus unable to prepare any account of it at that time.

The proof sheets of this new work have been critically examined and pronounced for superior to any other work in its power to thrill and electrify the reader, as he follows this small party through their varied struggles between life and death.

Had some superhuman power enabled those persons of Sir John Franklin's party whose lifeless bodies were found, to have written a few hours before death, the horrid sufferings they endured we doubt if they could equal the experiences of Dr. Hayes and his party, as they faced death itself from starvation, from the awayse Esquimaux, from the intense cold against which they had scarce any protection by wood or clothing, or from any of the centinued plans of the Esquimaux to hurder them of their centinued plans of the Esquimaux to hurder them of their peculiar trials which attended them.

The chapters descriptive of the two weeks of famine, of the continued plans of the Esquimanx to hurder them of their escape by stupefying their enemies and blockading them in their chapters. escape by singefying their enemies and blockading them in their snow hut, the escape of the Esquimanx and their pursuit after the party, the long and continued journey of hundreds of miles back to the brig—these cannot be equaled for interest, and are sorrowfully accepted as the experience of human beings. The descriptions of the habits of the Esquimanx, their mode of life, &c., are not based upon casual visits out upon a long residence with them in their own huts, while the descriptions of scenery and the circumstances attending Arctic Life, are pecularly vivid.

This book will be waited for with much eagerness by the lovers of the strange and marvelous.

A large portion of the profits from the book will be given to the outful of the new American Arctic Expedition, which salls in a few months, under command of Dr. Hayes.

It at times held the audience spell-bound; and the MAGNIFICENT SCENERY and surroundings in which it was clothed drew repeated expres-sions of admiration and delight.

Speaking of the piece this morning, the critic of The Herald observes: and surroundings in which it was clothed drew repeated expressions of admiration and delight.

Speaking of the piece this morning, the critic of The Herald observes:

A marked change in the bills of this theater attracted last evening a very numerous, fashionable, and critical audience, The play is a translation, by Matida Heron, of a five-act drama, Les Noces Venetiennes, written by Victor Sejour, for the Porte Saint Martin Theatre, Paris, and produced there about five years ago. Miss Heron's play, which she calls 'Leabia,' is one of those dramatic productions peculiar to the Bonlevart Theatre. In all these plays the moral and the dislogue are subjective to the thrilling effects in the acting and the scenery. The plots are always intricate and overloaded with incident, and the play deals with the passions rather than the affections. The colimination of the third act in Leabia is exceedingly effective, and was artistically and admirably performed. Miss Heron's performance throughout merits very high praise. Mr. Wallack's part is a very strong piece of character-painting, and it receives full justice at the hands of the artist.

Mr. George Jordan's gallant bearing and appearance and excellent acting vindicated, in the clearest manner, his position as the jeune premier of the American stage. Mrs. Adien and Mr. Jamison acted exceedingly well.

The play was exceedingly well.

The play was exceedingly well gotten up in the way of scenery, costume, &c. The mountain pass, in the second act, was one of the most picturesque stage views we ever remember to have witnessed in this country.

The Times remarks:

The situations of the piece are excellent, and were superbly vitalized by the admirable acting of all the principal artists. Mr. Jordan, as Galleno, made the most of a part which demands gallant presence as well as good acting. Mr. Jamison, as Spolatro, was good, but a little too tragic in bearing. Mrs. Allen's Viola was a correct performance in conception, and will undoubtedly gain in breadth where a few performance
